Niagara Publisher Teams Up with UK Educator

Sara Jordan Publishing Earns Exclusive Agent Status for Renowned UK Product

(NIAGARA FALLS, NY –October 14, 2007) - Sara Jordan of Sara Jordan Publishing will be exhibiting at the Annual Convention and World Languages Expo for the American Council of Teachers of Foreign Languages (ACTFL—www.actfl.org). The convention will be held in San Antonio, TX, November 16-18, 2007.

This year, Sara Jordan Publishing will not only represent her own product line, but is the exclusive North American agent for Linguascope (www.linguascope.com), an interactive on-line learning tool created by a UK educational company.

"Linguascope is a unique tool for students, and is a huge hit in the UK. What is amazing is that it is not an individually-focused program. Subscription to this tool entitles every student and teacher access to learning from home or from school. It's really just amazing," Sara Jordan shared. "In the UK, every other school has a full-year membership. It's a reasonable cost to educate an entire school. It's a new idea for North America, and when we show them the versatility and the advantages of the Linguascope family, it will surely catch on."

ACTFL is the only national organization dedicated to the improvement and expansion of the teaching and learning of all languages at all levels of instruction. Each year, over 6000 teachers, principals, administrators, and students of foreign language come from across the world to see what is new.
